

Training & Education

Training

We believe that technology transfer is crucial for any project. We also recognize the need for our customers to gain the most benefit from their investments. The purpose of the training proposal is to provide education and training. Samdisha typically adopts a Train the Trainer approach. That is, we train the Project Personnel who will be responsible for conducting the training of end users prior to Live Run date and beyond. We encourage customer to fully participate in our well-planned courses. Education Effective and efficient data processing is based on the skills of your people. Each must have the knowledge and ability to do their jobs today while gaining skills to bring data processing for tomorrow. That takes education planning sequences of courses designed for each of the people and each of the jobs in your installation. Through implementation of the education program, your people will gain practical skills that will yield a more profitable data processing installation for your organization.
